Canada has the distinction of being the only developed country with a universal health care system that does not include prescription drug benefits for everyone.

Our current fragmented system means higher drug costs for you, and huge profits for Big Pharma.

A universal pharmacare program would improve patient safety, prescribing appropriateness, therapeutic value, evidence-based drug evaluations, clinical trial transparency and drug monitoring, among other initiatives.

Canadians know that it is time for change. In a recent poll, 91 per cent of us supported universal pharmacare. The missing ingredient? Federal leadership.

Tell the Prime Minister that now is the time to make pharmacare a reality.

We call on the federal government to protect, strengthen and expand Canada's public health care system by showing the political leadership necessary to develop a national pharmacare program.
